

NAPA INSTITUTE™

To equip Catholic leaders to defend and advance the Catholic Faith in "the Next America" – today's emerging secular society.

"In the coming decades Catholics will likely find it harder, not easier to influence the course of American culture, or even to live their faith authentically."
Archbishop Charles Chaput O.F.M. Cap., "Catholics and the Next America", September 2010

We consecrate our Mission to Our Lady of Guadalupe, Patroness of the Americas.

What We Do:

The Napa Institute seeks to examine with a spirit of charity, fidelity to the Magisterium, and intellectual rigor the most critical issues facing Catholic leaders in the Next America.

Who We Serve:

The Napa Institute engages lay and ordained Catholics in leadership roles in the Church: who have demonstrated local diocesan influence and have the potential for national influence, who are intentional disciples of Jesus Christ, and who are committed to learning, living and sharing their faith to influence the culture in the Next America.
